

Idaho Firefighter Level 3 Qualifications

Safety 3

At least thirty-two hours of training from two or more of the following courses:

- “Firefighter Safety & Survival: The Company Officer’s Responsibility”*
- “Firefighter Health & Safety Program: Implementation & Management”*
- “Passport (FF) Accountability”*
- “Health & Safety Officer”*
- “Incident Safety Officer”*
- “Silent Wars”*
- “Infection Control: The Supervisor’s Role”*

Building Construction 2

Two National Fire Academy hand-off 16-hour courses:

- “Building Construction for Fire Suppression Forces: Principles of Wood & Ordinary Construction”*
- “Building construction for Fire Suppression Forces: Non-combustible & Fire-Resistive Construction”*

Fire Cause Determination 2

At least one of the following National Fire Academy hand-off 16-hour courses:

- “Fire/Arson Detection”*
- “Arson Detection for first Responders”*

plus any other combination of a total of 16 hours of approved workshops or courses that address some aspect of fire cause determination from the following list

(recommend a Fire & Arson Seminar):

- Advanced Fire Arson Detection*
- Fire Scene/Clandestine*
- Fire Cause Determination*
- Fire Cause Investigation*

Fire Ground Management 2

One 16-hour course:

- “Incident Command System”*

plus any other combination of a total of 16 hours of approved workshops or courses that address specifically fireground tactics, fireground strategy, or fireground command from the following list:

- “FS: Initial Company Tactical Operations”*
- “Strategy and Tactics”*
- “Incident Command System”*
 - “Overview”*
 - “Exercises”*

Fire Ground Management 2 (cont.)

"ICS for EMS"

"Fire Attack"

"Commanding the Initial Response"

"1st Due-Engine Company"

"Preparing for Incident Command"

"Fire Ground Operations"

"MCTO: Preparation"

"MCTO: Decision Making"

"MCTO: Tactics"

"MCTO: Simulation"

Practicum

300 hours of approved workshops or courses that address training for fire suppression, hazardous materials emergency response, fire prevention, or fire management. (These courses are in addition to the hours applied to other Enabling Objectives.)

Many agencies and fire departments have existing policies, regulations, etc. already in place regarding approved workshops attendance. The handling of department workshop attendance and interpretation of which workshops meet the above requirements for a specific department is a LOCAL MATTER, outside the authority or jurisdiction of Emergency Services Training.